

THE WILL, THE WILL OF CHRIST

"It is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure" (Philippians 2:13).

Amos R. Wells

W. S. Weedon

1. A - round the world the cho - rus rings, And hands are joined with
 2. In crowd - ed town or lone - ly plain, 'Mid man - y friends or
 3. When proud Am - bi - tion gilds her goal, When Ease to slum - ber 4. And when at last the gold - en years Have brought the crown - ing hands; A Broth - er - hood of Serv - ice sings In all the hap - py few, With man's ap - plause or man's dis - dain, To one al - le - giance calls, When silk - en Mam - mon lures the soul To rain - bow - tint - ed day, When toil and tri - al, pain and fears, For - ev - er pass a - lands; And glad - ly sounds the watch - word still That ev - er has suf - true, That sole de - sire their hearts could fill, Tho' all the earth en - halls, The Broth - er - hood of Serv - ice still Ex -alts the Pearl un - way, Up - on the sum - mit of the hill Is One that keep - eth ficed: "The will, the will, the bless - ed will! The will of Je - sus Christ!" ticed: "The will, the will, the prec - ious will! The will of Je - sus Christ!" priced: "The will, the will, the ho - ly will! The will of Je - sus Christ!" tryst: "'Tis He, the Will, the liv - ing Will! Our Mas - ter, Je - sus Christ!"

“The Lord is acquainted with us individually.
Every one born into the world is given his or her work to do for the purpose of making the world better...
Each one has his sphere, and if the human agent makes God his counselor then there will be no working at cross purposes with God.
He allots to every one a place and a work, and if we individually submit ourselves to be worked by the Lord, however confused and tangled life may seem to our eyes, God has a purpose in it all,
and the human machinery, obedient under the hand of divine wisdom, will accomplish the purposes of God.
As in a well-disciplined army every soldier has his allotted position and is required to act his part in contributing to the strength and perfection of the whole, so the worker for God must do his allotted part in the great work of God.”